Ideco Internet Control Server Standart Edition

Developed By Ideco Software Article ICS-STD-PK-C005 Ideco Internet Control Server is a universal Internet gateway designed to make network administrators job simple and easy. The system combines many components and meets all typical applications control web traffic and network services for corporate networks and remote access points to the Internet. Ideco ICS is based on reliable and proven solutions from the group of Linux-based products which allow for a few minutes to configure Internet access to generate statistics to deploy the mail service or a web site to manage access policies, and to prohibit questionable Internet resources. All the updates and improvements within the Ideco ICS 2.5 version free of charge. Installation of the system is automatic and controlled through a convenient interface. Ideco ICS performs the following key functions The product has a conformance certificate № OS-1-ST-0125 for the certification system Communication of the Ministry of communications and mass communications of the Russian Federation. In the process of operation Ideco ICS can significantly reduce the time costs of maintenance of corporate networks. Most of the operations management processes network management activities are performed in semi-automatic mode and do not require special technical knowledge. Software product Ideco Internet Control Server is licensed on a perpetual basis. There are two ways to license the product by the number of registered users in the system Named or pachislo simultaneous Internet sessions no limit on the number of registered users Concurrent. Standard version includes all the functionality version of Enterprise, except in the following options support ADLDAP assign mail addresses for each user using payment cards and create an unlimited number of rules in the built-in Firewall module. For government customers and educational institutions receive a 15% discount. The main advantages of Ideco Internet Control Server in comparison with analogues of other manufacturers are During the period of use is guaranteed by the manufacturer to all registered users with technical support application services Remote assistance for a speedy solution of problems of high priority and packets of updates and functional improvements of the software product version

Link to article:: Ideco Internet Control Server Standart Edition